Since its inception NLNW has graduated seven companies. Each company has reported significant increases in revenues, have hired additional staff, and in some cases expanded their spaces.

“It was literally like clearing through the clouds. I see far more clearly where we can go with this strategy than I ever have.” stated Peter Jackson, CEO, Miller Industrial, Elk Grove Village.

Qualifying business must have been in business for at least three years and reached some financial milestones.

New Owners Build on NuWay's Reputation for Connecting Customers with Solutions

The company has best been known for a service in which it puts electrical components onto tape and reel so contract manufacturers with surface mount equipment can automatically place them onto circuit boards.

The team at NuWay Electronics loves solving problems for contract manufacturers with surface mount equipment and making customers' lives easier through its tape and reel service. In fact, the company's motto is Connecting customers with solutions. As new owner and President Doug Hamilton recently said, he wants NuWay to be the kind of company that is easy to do business with—much like Elk Grove Village strives to be Beyond Business Friendly.

“We've got our hands full supporting our customers and manufacturing our products,” Hamilton said. “One of the things we like about Elk Grove is that the bureaucracy is low and we're given a great opportunity to operate a business here.

“No business owner wants their village to be a roadblock, we all want to be supported,” he added. “And none of the other communities I've seen support businesses the way Elk Grove does with job fairs, manufacturing lunches, leadership discussions, and vital networking within the community.”

Hamilton pointed to the high density of electronics OEMs and electronics support activity in Elk Grove as being very attractive, compared to other areas in Illinois. Most of NuWay's customers are located within a 50-mile radius, and many can even be found within the same business park off of East Higgins Road and Martin Lane.

Late last year, Hamilton's financial group (which includes co-owner John DiNardi) purchased NuWay from former president and owner, Bill Aldeen, who bought the company in 1991.

Thanks, in part to a Paycheck Protection Program (PPP) loan, NuWay was able to keep all of its employees during the Covid-19 pandemic and even thrived as an essential business.

As part of the purchase agreement, Hamilton asked Aldeen to stay on during a key three-month transition period. In the first month of that transition, they both visited the company's top 10 customers and suppliers. The response was very supportive and encouraging.

Being from the Northwest Suburbs (now living in Arlington Heights), Hamilton knew of NuWay, but he didn't know the company's people. In fact, as is often the case, the new owners could view the company's full financials, but weren't allowed to meet the NuWay employees until after they closed the deal. Hamilton relied on an analysis of the company's low turnover rate to gauge the strength of its culture. Fortunately, that data has been validated by his experience so far.

“We could tell [Aldeen] established a culture built on respect here,” Hamilton said. “Some people have been here for 15 or 30 years. That means they’re being treated right.

“These people care about each other and enjoy working together,” Hamilton added. “I couldn’t be happier with the company culture here and how everyone is embracing the next generation of ownership.”

NuWay’s revenue is evenly split between its service side, its cable assembly and circuit board manufacturing for OEMs, and its sales and distribution of specialty components. The company has best been known for a service in which it puts electrical components onto tape and reel so contract manufacturers with surface mount equipment can automatically place them onto circuit boards.

With a recent shortage in semiconductors and components, companies are buying them any way they can—and they aren’t usually coming on the tape and reel they need, so that service is extremely important right now.

Hamilton hopes NuWay will soon become known for cable and harness assembly and sub-component assembly as an OEM supplier.

Most people think of cable assemblies as very high labor projects. Although there’s always a touch involved, NuWay’s elite equipment—like its ARTOS automated wire cutting and stripping machine puts them ahead of the game by allowing them to cut, strip, and terminate thousands of wires per hour. With four to six crimping machines running, NuWay has already won an opportunity to support 10,000 cable assemblies per week.

Since its change in ownership, NuWay has been focused on increasing operating profits and throughput by bringing in lean processes, eliminating wasteful steps and introducing new technologies like 3D printing and soon a new ERP system to replace antiquated financial and manufacturing planning systems.

With him, Hamilton also brings NuWay the knowledge required to pre-program chips and put them on tape and reel as a new offering that saves customers steps and adds value by bundling services.

That service exemplifies the company’s goal to connect customers with solutions. By making it easy for its large customer base, which includes companies like Honeywell and Rockwell, to do business, NuWay is also showing what it means to be Beyond Business Friendly in Elk Grove Village.

As NuWay continues to grow, the company is searching for help in light electronics assembly labor with skills in cable assembly, in particular. Interested candidates can email info@nuway.net, call (847) 437-7120, or walk-into 165 Martin Lane in Elk Grove Village.

Beginning this May, the Village will begin an approximately $6 million construction improvement to rehabilitate Arlington Heights Rd. ## Biesterfield Road Resurfacing Project

Late this summer, the Village will be rehabilitating Biesterfield Road from Meacham Road to the Village's western limits. The project will include pavement patching and resurfacing, replacement of deteriorated curb and sidewalk, drainage structure improvements, and improvements to ADA ramps and pedestrian signals at the Biesterfield Rd./ Wise Rd./ Michigan Ln. intersection. This project is anticipated to be completed by the end of the year.

Street Resurfacing Program

This year's Street Resurfacing Program consists of resurfacing 8.5 miles of streets, pavement patching, rehabilitation of curb and sidewalk, and improvements to ADA curb ramps.

The construction activities are generally broken down into three phases:

- Phase I (Storm Sewer) – Necessary repairs and/or modifications are made to the drainage structures along these roadways.
- Phase II (Concrete) – Replacement of deteriorated curbs and sidewalks throughout the project area takes place. This work is generally limited to one side of the street at a time.
- Phase III (Pavement) – The final phase includes full depth pavement patching, milling of the existing pavement surface, the placement of a new pavement surface layer, and then final pavement markings are placed. A tack-coat of fresh oil is applied prior to laying the new pavement layer as an adhesive or bonding between the asphalt layers. Fresh oil signage will be posted in advance to remind motorist to travel slowly on the tack-coat material.

Preventative Maintenance Program

In an effort to proactively extend the useful life of the roadways, the Village will apply a preservative seal known as Reclamite to 6.8 miles of streets that were resurfaced during the 2021 Street Resurfacing Program (a full list of streets is available on the Village's website in the newsletter publications section).

The preservative sealant helps to reduce pavement deterioration, which usually begins due to a combination of traffic loads and the effects of moisture penetrating the pavement. As the pavement ages and cracking develops, more moisture can enter the pavement and accelerate the rate of deterioration. Reclamite is an emulsion of specific petroleum oils and resins designed to restore the asphalt's original flexibility and aid in sealing out moisture. This application helps to extend the life of the roadway by years.

Village-Wide Concrete Rehabilitation Program (Sidewalk and Curb)

This program will include the replacement of Village-owned sidewalk at various locations that are fragmented, heaved, or sunken. The program also replaces curb that is affecting drainage within the roadway. The rehabilitation program work is broken into a spring and fall phase. ■

Water and Sewer Systems Improvements

Lift Station Rehabilitation

This spring, the Touhy Avenue, Route 83, and Shenandoah lift stations are scheduled for full rehabilitation. The rehabilitation will include new piping, pumps, control panels, force main lining, and wet well lining. This project will improve the reliability of sanitary service and decrease maintenance costs related to operating the infrastructure.

Water Tower Relocation

The Village’s east side water tower, located on Pratt Boulevard, has reached the end of its useful life. The water tower will be decommissioned and a new cell tower will be constructed at the site. The construction of a new water tower will occur at the southwest corner of Busse Road and Oakton Street and take approximately one and half years to complete. This relocation will improve water service in the Business Park. The Pratt Boulevard water tower will remain operational until the new tank’s construction is completed and placed in service.

Touhy and Pratt Sanitary Main Replacement

This summer, the Touhy and Pratt sanitary force mains will be replaced as they are towards the end of their useful life. They are over 45 years old and have experienced significant and costly repairs in the last few years. This project will improve the reliability of sanitary service in the area and decrease maintenance costs related to the aging infrastructure. ■
